

What is the size of the 390 solar panel

Overview

A 390 watt solar panel is a photovoltaic module rated to produce 390 watts of DC power under Standard Test Conditions (STC). These panels sit in the mid-to-high efficiency range, offering more power per panel than traditional 300W modules while remaining more affordable than premium. The URE PEACH 390W solar panel delivers dependable, high-efficiency power with a sleek mono-crystalline half-cut cell design for improved performance and reduced energy loss. It's engineered to perform in low-light conditions and built to handle extreme weather, including heavy snow and strong. What is the difference between low price panels and top price panels?

Optimal Power-to-Cost Ratio: 390W panels occupy the sweet spot in 2025's solar market, delivering 21-22% efficiency at competitive prices while requiring fewer panels than lower-wattage alternatives, reducing overall installation costs by $800-1,200 for typical residential systems. It's high efficiency and certified reliability make it ideal for utility grid-tied installations including ground-mounted and commercial rooftop solar panel systems. Excellent Performance in Various Conditions: Low-temperature coefficient ensures good energy production even in warmer.
